PROJECT REPORT

Rotary Oceania Medical Aid for Children (ROMAC)

ROMAC organises medical treatment in Australia for young people from developing countries suffering from life-threatening or disfiguring conditions that cannot be treated in their home countries.

Over 20 years, ROMAC has assisted more than 300 children from 20 countries in Asia and the Pacific region. These are children, usually from very remote areas, who have heart conditions, horrific burns, deformed limbs and herniated brains.

The patients are treated by volunteer surgeons and their teams in major hospitals around Australia and New Zealand.

Rotary clubs and individual Rotarians organise host families for the patient and a family member/carer. Host families are generally drawn from the national community of the patient.

Rotarians and non-Rotarian volunteers also provide transport to get the patients to medical appointments and other events.

The Rotary Club of Booragoon is the coordinating club for ROMAC in Rotary District 9460 (southern WA).
